Meet the Fan Designer

Toby Brett (LEGO® Ideas name T0BY1KENOBI20506) is from London, England. His physics studies at the University of Manchester keep him busy, but he always finds time to build:

LEGO® Ideas fan designer Toby Brett

Toby's original Luxo Jr. character model

"LEGO building has been a huge part of my life for as long as I can remember. It's more than a hobby for me, it's an outlet for creativity. I love building official sets, but my passion lies in designing MOCs (My Own Creations), both digitally and with real bricks. I've even displayed my creations at LEGO exhibitions, which is always rewarding. One of my favourite projects has been recreating the Luxo Jr. character. This iconic Pixar mascot symbolises my love for their films. It took weeks of research, studying images to make the model as accurate as possible. The biggest challenge was ensuring the model could stand on its own, especially after I started designing the model digitally. The ball was tricky to recreate smoothly at this scale, but after multiple prototypes, I was happy with the result. When the project reached the 10,000 votes, it was an incredible feeling, and I want to thank everyone who supported it! LEGO Ideas is a fantastic platform where anyone can become a designer with the right idea. I definitely have plans for more. The possibilities are endless!"

Evolving animation by leaps and bounds

Art has frequently challenged technology, just as technology has often inspired and facilitated art. Not least on the big screen. With the rise of 3D graphics and computer science throughout the 1980s and 1990s, visionary animation and special effects artists embraced the opportunity to imbue characters, landscapes and textures with groundbreaking, realistic details. One profound milestone moment in this evolution came in the shape of a playful little desk lamp character created at Pixar Animation Studios for the 1986 short film Luxo Jr.

Small lamp – Big personality

First introduced by Pixar in the now legendary 1986 animated short film, the Luxo Jr. character bounced his way into the hearts and imaginations of audiences in the film industry and beyond. Unlike any animated object seen before, the Luxo Jr. character displayed charm and emotion with his expressive movements and mischievous curiosity. Little did he or his creators know that he would not only spark, but also define, a new era in cinematic storytelling and computer-generated imagery. He remains the endearing symbol of the optimism, determination and creative innovation that characterises the pioneering Pixar spirit.

Stories built on curiosity

The Luxo Jr. character and the short film showcased how computer technology could facilitate creative storytelling to connect with audiences on a deep level. Decades and dozens of films later, the Luxo Jr. character still appears in the iconic Pixar logo in the opening credits of each new film. Even the iconic ball features in selected Pixar films as a playful surprise and reminder of the heart and soul of the Pixar origin story. Both the Luxo Jr. character and his ball play important roles in this LEGO® model, too. You can pose and bounce the lamp to mimic some of his moves from the short film or show him 'jumping' on the ball. And if you look inside the ball, you will find small references to some of the most beloved Pixar characters and stories.
