Conditions of use :

- Type of food intended to come in contact with the material object ->

General food

- Storage time and temperature of the material / object ->

The product isn't suitable to store food for a long time to avoid spoilage.
The storage temperature depends on weather, environment, etc

- Any treatment of the material / object ->

Each time after use, leave the cookware cool down naturally. Then wash it with a neutral cleanser and a sponge/towel. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

Clean the cookware thoroughly after use to remove any residues that may burn and become stains when the cookware is being used next time.

To remove tough stains, pour hot water into the cookware to soften the stains. Scrub vigorously with stainless steel cleanser or powder. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

Minerals from water or starch from food may cause a white film formed on the cookware surface. This white film can be removed by wiping with a towel dipped in lemon juice or vinegar. Then wash, rinse and dry thoroughly.
